Civic House Art Project

The opportunity

Civic House provides the opportunity for a new exterior design to reflect its significant location in Wakatū.

Why?

- Our built environment shapes us, affects our mood, our energy. It communicates who we are as a community and what we aspire to
- An opportunity to adopt Te Taihū Intergenerational Strategy of “being good ancestors”
- Let’s show the world what Nelson is capable of.

Key objectives

- Transparent, honest and robust process
- An iwi informed and sanctioned project per the Te Taihū Intergenerational Strategy¹
- Final design approved by iwi
- Sign-off required by Councillors (as owners of the building)
- Community-led project delivered at no/minimal cost to Council.

Next steps

Iwi informed of project (Sept 2) and asked to advise how they wish to progress and be involved.

Councillors updated and asked for their feedback on the process (Sept 10).

¹ Te Taihū Intergenerational Strategy (Draft Dec 2019). Priority area: TE TAUHUTANGA (IDENTITY). “Our Stories, Te Reo and Culture: Improve our narrative and build on initiatives relating to our local stories (past and present), our regional provenance and appellations.” (Pg 8). “Our people are proud of their individual and shared identity and feel a strong sense of belonging. We treat each other with kindness and respect.” (Pg 22)
